Monthly Property Market Commentary

The S&P/NZX All Real Estate Gross Index advanced by +4.34% in the month of August. The S&P/ASX200 A-REIT Accumulation Index was even stronger with a return of +6.26%, while the global FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Index only rose by +2.1%.

A key driver of the strength in Australia and NZ appeared to be the announcement of the pending inclusion of a number of mid-cap names in the FTSE EPRA/NAREIT Index for the first time due to a lowered size threshold. This sparked aggressive passive buying in names likely to enter the index, although just after month end it was confirmed that Argosy Property and Stride Property would be the only two NZ entrants, with Vital Healthcare Property narrowly missing.

Elsewhere, continued general strength in industrial stocks and property fund managers was also notable. The strength came despite a sharp rise in NZ 10-year bond yields from 1.51% to 1.72%. Ever tightening property cap rates may perhaps become vulnerable if this bond yield move continues, putting future valuation movements at a degree of risk unless rental growth is strong. News-flow in the month was quiet, with the only highlight being a small $36m asset purchase by Investore at a seemingly tight cap rate of 4.0%.

Performance in the month was again led by Goodman Property (+7.2%) which continued to advance following its parent, Goodman Group paying $2.50 to lift its holding to 24.8%. Precinct Property (PCT, +6.9%) and Property For Industry (PFI, +5.9%) were other highlights. The retail exposed stocks underperformed, with Investore (IPL, -0.5%) and Kiwi Property (KPG, -0.4%) lagging.

Salt Enhanced Property Fund Commentary

The Fund lagged its benchmark in the month of August, returning +3.69% compared to the +4.26% advance turned in by the S&P/NZX All Real Estate Gross Index.

In a strong month for property indices, our small group of shorts were unsurprisingly painful, detracting 0.30% from returns. These did allow larger Australian longs so that our overall returns from that market contributed +0.12% but this was still a little disappointing given the strength of the market in the month.

In such a strong month for property stocks, the Fund simply did not have enough "beta" to keep up with the strength of the advances. In particular, headwinds came from being underweight the very expensive but high momentum pair of Goodman Property (GMT, +7.2%) and Property For Industry (PFI, +5.9%). Stride Property (SPG, +5.6%) also ran hard on what appeared to be passive buying pressure. Our short in the ultra-expensive Arena REIT (ARF, +17.8%) ran hard due to a passive index inclusion.

The Fund's overweights tend to be somewhat cheaper and not necessarily always possessing the same momentum. The largest positive came from our overweight in GDI Property (GDI, +7.1%), which is now almost entirely exposed to Perth property. With rents at levels that are well below replacement value, net absorption being the strongest of the Australian office markets and cap rate differentials to Sydney being unusually high, we are very bullish on the potential valuation upside from this name.

Other positives came from Irongate Property (IAP, +10.5%) and Garda Property (GDF, +9.0%) whose strategy of developing industrial property appears very sensible in a market where purchasing such assets has become very difficult thanks to a wall of direct property fund management money.
